

- Home
- About us
- Superyacht News
- Photographs
- Articles
- Travel Blog
- TV
- Books
- Contact us

Tuesday, March 1st, 2016

Quintessence Yachts appoints James Hall as Sales Director

Quintessence Yachts the yacht builder developing the first ever Aston Martin powerboat, due for launching soon has added one of Sunseekers top producing salesmen to its team

It is strengthening its senior managerial team with the appointment of James Hall as sales director.

Headquartered in Holland and with production facilities in the UK, Quintessence Yachts has made global waves by.

James will be responsible for the sales activities worldwide as well contributing to Quintessence Yachts' future developments. In doing so, he will leverage on over 10 years of proven senior management experience within the yachting industry.

Quintessence Yachts has a broad international target group and with many new developments ahead.

The company has seen impressive growth since its establishment in the Netherlands and employs a multi-cultural management team with extensive experience within luxury industries.

The builder is currently working on the AM37 powerboat, said to be a true reflection of Aston Martin's DNA in terms of its beauty, power and soul.

Leave a Reply

You must be logged in to post a comment.

Comments RSS Feed

« Radical Vripack Slide Hull Gets Patent Protection