Quintessence Yachts Drops More Details On Aston Martin Yacht

The hype surrounding Quintessence Yachts' powerboat project with Aston Martin hasn't waned since news first broke of the partnership. The powerboat, called the AM37, first made headlines back in April 2015 upon its announcement at a press event. Very few details were disclosed at that time about the upcoming project, but now that the Monaco Boat Show is drawing closer and closer, information surrounding the AM37 have slowly leaked through the cracks. The most important "so far" feature of the powerboat is the sliding carbon fiber deck cover that can be...
