Aston Martin hits the water

11 May 2015

NEW POWERBOAT: Aston Martin is expanding its horizons and is teaming up with The Netherlands' Quintessence Yachts to design a 37ft powerboat.

The AM37 is said to combine the best features of a sports car and a luxury speedboat.

The hull features high tech composite with epoxy resin, while the structural parts are made of carbon fibre, using vacuum infusion technology and post curing. The tooling has been 5-axis CNC machined by a Southampton based supplier.

"We are sure that the Aston Martin ethos of 'Power, Beauty and Soul' can be successfully translated into the yachting environment in a very special way," said Mariella Mengozzi, CEO, Quintessence Yachts.

"Our contemporary designs retain classic lines whilst discovering the latest technical innovations: the exciting range of luxury speedboats we are developing with Quintessence Yachts reflects this commitment to excellence in every field," added Katia Bassi, managing director, Aston Martin brands.

Quintessence Yachts says the new powerboat will be available in two different versions. The AM37 S offers speeds of up to 52 knots, while the AM37 leisure powerboat has a maximum speed of 44 knots.

Both models feature interactive voice control and activation, a fully HD integrated touchscreen with navigation and multimedia system and remote controlled functions.

The new powerboat has been designed by naval architects Mulder Design, which worked closely with the Aston Martin team to make sure all style changes made in the UK complement the hull's performance.

More details on the powerboat's design will be unveiled over the coming months and the new boat will be officially launched later this year.
