ASTON MARTIN AM37 POWERBOAT

A collaboration between Quintessence, Aston Martin, and Mulder Design — the latter of which has created several superyachts based on Bond movies — the Aston Martin AM37 Powerboat is the first powerboat to carry the company's name, and one of the rare crossovers to share the automaker's DNA. Like the cars, this 37-foot speeder is crafted from high-tech composites and carbon fiber, which most notably is used for the sliding deck, allowing you to simply cover the cockpit when you're done for the day without the need to stow everything away. Other features include air conditioning, a fridge, and espresso machine that can all be started remotely, integrated navigation, control monitor and entertainment systems controlled via a 15-inch touchscreen, and a maximum speed of 44 knots, or 52 in the "S" model.
