Aston Martin AM37 speedboat is real and will be built

Aston Martin AM37 speedboat

SHARE

Aston Martin is joining forces with Quintessence Yachts

and Mulder Design to create a speedboat. For now we only have digital renders but in the months to come the yacht will actually come to life and will be commercialized with the "AM37" moniker. It has received this name because it's 37 feet long and will be able to top out at 50 knots. There's also going to be a hotter S version which will manage a maximum speed of 60 knots.

There aren't a lot of details available at this point, but Aston Martin has announced the AM37 yacht will have a special hull made from a combination of carbon fiber with composite materials. Dutch boat builder Quintessence Yachts will kick off production of the speedboat late this year in United Kingdom, with pricing to be announced closer to the AM37's launch.
