ASTON MARTIN AM37 MAKES U.S. DEBUT AT 2017 YACHTS MIAMI BEACH

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 18 2017 / KATHLEEN TURNER

There are hundreds of gorgeous playthings at Yachts Miami Beach this week, but Aston Martin’s exclusive superboat, the AM37, should top the list describing how to spend time wisely at the show. Built by the UK firm Quintessence Yachts, deftly executed with refined, sexy tech, and outfitted with exceptional bespoke features, a close look at the AM37 proves time well spent.

Strolling by its temporary tether at the show, located at ENT 4 NEW 125, take a long look at the sleek lines, extraordinary color, and simple elegance of this divine creation. Step in, if you dare, for a more careful assessment, drinking in the details that have earned this yacht its Aston Martin wings. Note its fluid, double curve windscreen, the first of its kind, in perfect pitch with the overall design. Then, ask to see, first hand, the operations that make it fit for a Bond. James Bond. That would be the push button hydraulic transformations that delight and astonish as they simply go about their assigned tasks. We’ve written about her before, so in search of the exceptional details, find them here and here.

Charming crowds at Fisher Island prior to the show, AM37 simply captured its audience by running through her paces, briskly speeding up to her 45-knot clip, as she deftly navigated docks, harbors, and traffic. Just as enchanting sitting still, the AM37 always gathers a crowd, so ensure your private time with this temptress by phoning ahead for a preview at the show. We’re warning you, however, one glance is never enough.
