Though some are still in their concept phase, the general appeal and demand for them is sure to bring all of them to market in the very near future.

Quintessence Yachts Aston Martin AM37 – Described by the maker as a “unique combination of advanced materials, competition-derived design and high-tech components make driving the AM37 an exciting experience for all who are passionate about speed” it is available in two versions. The AM37 features 2 x 370hp Mercury diesels or 2 x 430hp Mercury petrol engines, while the “S” models offers twin 520hp Mercury petrol engines – either way, expect speeds of 44 knots or more.
